

creative
commons

how to use creative commons

1st step

type in a picture you want from google
and click images

2nd step

now that you have done that click tools and click usage
rights

here are some examples

<https://www.pexels.com/photo/plant-flower-rose-bloom-39517/>

Orange Rose Flower in Bloom during Daytime · Free Stock Photo

Creator: Pixabay

Flower – Wikipedia
 creator: unknown
en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Flower

Flower | Definition, Parts, Anatomy, Types, & Facts | Britannica
 creator: unknown
britannica.com/science/flower

Buy the Book: FLOWERS | Charlotte Moss
creator: unknown
charlottemoss.com/sshop/charlotte-moss-flowers/overall

creative commons is something where people have special permission or a license to let other people use their work or pictures

A decorative border of stylized flowers in various colors (orange, purple, pink, red, blue) surrounds the central text. The flowers are simple line drawings with flat colors.

The End!